174th Fighter Wing Vision and Mission Statements

Vision Statement

Our Vision is a world class fighter wing comprised of diverse individuals empowered to meet all challengers, and win. We accept nothing less.

Mission Statement

Provide combat ready personnel, aircraft, and equipment prepared for world wide deployment. To deter or attack and destroy enemy surface and airborne forces in support of joint operations; and to support civil authorities at the direction of the governor.

COMMANDER'S COMMENTS

Even though I've written numerous articles for this column over the years, writing THIS article, for MY column, seems vastly different. My previous words to you, offered as a fill-in while the Commander was TDY, covered such topics as ORIs, UCIs, AEFs, safety and the 101 Critical Days of Summer. Now that I am writing this column as the Commander, you can expect words on the same topics, as we will continue to have ORIs, UCIs and AEFs, and you will always know that I was a former Chief of Safety. But I will save these topics for future articles.

My biography notes that I have served in nearly a dozen positions in the 174th over the years. That's what normally happens when you spend a lot of time in one organization. As I came up through the ranks in all of these jobs, I had the opportunity to learn from the old heads (of which I have become) that came and went before me. My military education has been provided by Colonels and Chief Master Sergeants, Lieutenants and Airmen. I have been fortunate to have worked with some of the legends of the 174th, names that many of you would be unfamiliar with, but individuals that had much to do with the success that this Wing currently enjoys. I have taken something from every one of these mentors in my military upbringing, in order to preserve the heritage and tradition of the 174th, most notably excellence. I ask all of you to help me continue in that quest.

To Colonel Knauff, you have positioned the Wing on a very strong footing. Thank you. I know that I have large shoes to fill to be able to hand to my successor that same enjoyable positioning. Driving to that end will be my pledge to you, and to the men and women of this organization.

To my wife, Carol, and daughters Lindsay, Meghan and Jordan, thank you for all you have endured so far during my military career, and all that you will endure during this time consuming assignment that I have worked towards for so many years.

After 24 years of military service, all of it as a member of this organization, I have been given the unbelievable opportunity to serve as Commander, 174th Fighter Wing. No matter where my career goes from here, I will NEVER have a position that I am more proud of.

AF Says Thank you to Mom and Dad

By Chief Master Sgt. Ted Mosley, 174th FW Command Chief

"With public sentiment, nothing can fail. Without it, nothing can succeed." President Abraham Lincoln's words are true today as they were in his own time, and as America's airmen face the great challenges of the war on terrorism, our success will certainly depend on the support of the American people. As families, employers, and communities across the nation share the burdens of our service, it is critical the commanders at every level reach out to cultivate the relationships that form the foundation of public support for our airmen. To assist them and their staffs in this important work, we (USAF) have developed Your Guardians of Freedom, a Total Air Force program that will ease the logistical burden of building and sustaining those relationships.

On May 5, 2003, the Secretary of the Air Force, James G. Roche and Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. John P. Jumper launched a service wide campaign to thank the parents of America's airmen for their support of their children's service. The Air Force Parent Pin- or "P" pin program encourages airmen to register on a secure Air Force web site, www.yourguardiansoffreedom.com, where they can provide the names and addresses of up to two parents (or parental figures). Shortly thereafter, the airmen's parents receive personalized letters from the Secretary Roche and General Jumper containing high-quality lapel pins displaying the letter "P" cradled in the Air Force symbol. I highly encourage all members to take advantage of this service.

Command Chief
Master Sgt. Mosley

On a different note, I want to comment on our change of Command Ceremony on Sunday of the May UTA. It has been an honor to serve Col. (BG select) Knauff these past several years. We met during trying times, and he put his trust in the Chiefs of the base to get us through the reorganization. He told us what needed to be done and we did it with his support. I look forward to serving our new Commander and will pledge the same support. My best wishes to both Commanders in their future endeavors.

Chaplain's Corner

By Chaplain (Maj.) Tim Bejian, Northeast Air Defense Sector

Have you ever had those nagging little feelings that just wouldn't go away, no matter how much time goes by? Some people like to think that these feelings are just coincidence - whether they prove true or not. Others, like myself, think that these nagging little feelings are God's attempts to get our attention. You may be thinking that this only applies to religious matters. Not so! The Lord cares about all aspects of your life. Let me give you a personal example.

Recently I had some remodeling work done on my house. One of the rooms involved had a metal fireplace made by "Majestic." During the remodeling, the contractor asked if we wanted to keep it or pull it out to make the room larger and more usable. My wife thought that it might lessen the value of our house if it was removed, but left the decision with me. We have been in that house for 8 years and during that whole time I probably haven't used that fireplace more than a dozen times. Not because I don't like fireplaces, just the opposite. There is nothing better than sitting on a couch with your significant other watching a bright cozy fire in a darkened room. But during those 8 years I never had a sense of peace about that fireplace. Because of this, every time I used it I would make sure that the fire was pretty much burned out before I went to bed. So when the contractor asked if I wanted it out I said yes - and I'm glad that I listened to that still, small voice that had nagged me for 8 years. Unseen behind the wall, the contractor discovered that the people who installed the metal fireplace never surrounded it with a firewall. They framed it in place with wood 2/4s directly in contact with the metal. Some of these 2/4s were completely charred through. It is just by the Grace of God that the house had not burned down.

Chaplain (Maj.) Tim Bejian

The lesson for us all is this. The next time you hear that still, small voice nagging you about something, whether it concerns Faith or not, ask yourself, "is God trying to tell me something." He may just be! As I said, He cares about everything in your life, not just religious matters.

May the Lord whisper in your ear often.

A Note from the Chaplain's Office

The 174 FW/HC is offering the TRAINED CRISIS RESPONDER (TCR) COURSE: Terrorism and Disaster Response

Critical Incident Stress is not limited to combat or active terrorist related psychological trauma as many experienced on 9/11. Acute/Critical Incident Stress can be experienced by a single person or an entire group. No one is immune to such stress. It is the result of experiencing or witnessing any kind of traumatic event: combat; accidents that result in serious or fatal injuries; violent crime; acts of terror; the death of a family member; natural events: storms, floods, tornados, fires, where loss of property and or life is involved and others, the list is extensive.

Maj. Gen. (Ret) Paul Schempp, Chairman of the Central New York Committee for the Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve (ESGR) and Tom Shaw, ESGR Committee member presented Brigadier General (Select) Robert A. Knauff a pair of DOD cuff links as a thank you for all his ESGR support while he served as Commander of the 174th Fighter Wing.

174th Rifle Team Excels at Recent Statewide Competition

By Capt. Jim Oaksford, 174th FW Rifle Team Member

Capt. Jim Oaksford

Seven members of the 174th FW Rifle Team participated in the New York Military Forces Combat Competition on 25, 26 and 27 April 2003 located in Camp Smith, Peekskill, NY. Year after year the team achieves both Team Awards and Individual Awards, with 2003 as no exception. This competitive event brings together Military Rifle Teams from the Army Guard, Air Guard, and Naval Reserves across New York State. The longstanding members devoted to our 174th Rifle Team display the finest of marksmanship, as well as encourage young airman to become participants. The awards displayed on the wall in the hangar from 1996 to 2003 demonstrate the teams' dedication, their courage to compete, their devotion to teach, and their desire to win.

As a team member myself, I would like to share with you some of the events which occurred this year. We brought to the competition a unit issued weapon, M16-original, with the sights set and ready. We were all notified at the line that ammunition for our issued weapons was not available. We were given a choice; don't compete or use Army weapons, M16-A2's. These Army weapons were not sighted and some of us had never even fired an M16-A2 weapon. In the face of the odds against us, we had no choice but to use the Army M16-A2's. Winning at this competition is never easy. However, what makes these accomplishments so special is that they were achieved with only two sighter shots and unfamiliar weapons. Normally when you qualify with the M16, you are given a minimum of ten sighter shots.

Please join me in congratulating the 2003 awards winners.

New York State Fair 2003

By Chief Master Sgt. David D Heckman, State Fair Project Manager

The NYS Fair is just 3 1/2 months away and planning is underway to continue the excellent reputation of past years. We are working on some changes to improve the display and will need support from all sections to make this years exhibit a continued success. The goals for this years exhibit will focus on recruiting, image and patriotism. First and foremost we must use this venue as a recruiting opportunity to sustain the Wing Mission. Second, we will do this while presenting a professional image of the ANG and the U.S. Military. Finally, we will promote patriotism through flag sales, historical displays and support to the veterans associations represented at the fair.

Myself, Senior Master Sgt. Fox and Master Sgt. Weiler are looking forward to working with all of the units involved. Please forward any questions or concerns via e-mail or phone to one of the previously mentioned NCOs. Thanks for your past and future efforts.

174th Fighter Wing Family Readiness Chat

By Chris Muszynski, 174th FW Family Readiness Coordinator

Chris Muszynski

First welcome home members of the 174th FW Security Forces Squadron, Capt. Richard Dix and Staff Sgt. Gregory Hallinan. Also welcome home the deployed members of the 152nd Air Operations Group. Job Well Done!!

Please visit the Family Readiness office upon your return for many programs available to you and your families: Welcome Home guide provided by the Red Cross, Return and Reunion guide written by the Air Force Crossroads, "Getting Back Together-Homecoming Reunion VCR Tape, Information and directions for the Vet Center, phone: 478-7127, Online brochures "Homecoming: Resilience after Wartime" <http://helping.apa.org/resilience/homcoming.html> and more information available in Family Readiness office.

When the war is over, stress and uncertainty can require the skills of resilience both from those members returning home and those families that stay behind. Resilience is defined as the ability to adapt well in the face of adversity, trauma, crises, threats, harsh winter conditions and other major sources of stress. Reunions with families and return to work is often idealized as quick, smooth transitions and sometimes realities may fall short of the ideal reunions. There are many resources available at the Family Readiness office to assist you and your families during this time of transition. Please call or stop in for assistance.

THANK YOU to all the military members of the 174 Fighter Wing and families for their participation in the recent March of Dimes Walk for America on April 27th, 03.

Anheuser-Busch offers free admission to Theme Parks

Operation Salute will begin Friday May 23, 2003 thru Tuesday Nov. 11, 2003 this program allows a one-time complimentary admission to Busch Gardens Williamsburg, Busch Gardens Tampa, Sea World Orland, Sea World San Antonio, Sea World San Diego and Sesame Place in Langhorne PA. Military personnel and 4 direct dependents will be given one days admission free. For more information contact Family Readiness.

Gift of Groceries

Are you looking for a great way to support the troops? Why not support their families here at home with a "Gift of Groceries". This program is through the Defense Commissary Agency. Gift certificates can be purchased by anyone to give to military families authorized to shop at the Commissary. Certificates can be purchased by calling toll free 877-770-4438 or log onto www.commissaries.com for more information.

Bored? Too much time on your hands? How can you help a our families? Why not volunteer for the Family Readiness Office call 454-6577 for more information

A New Concept of Chemical Warfare Defense Operations (CWCONOPS)

By Lt.Col. Carey Merritt, 174th FW Support Group Executive Officer

 Please read this article if you care about surviving, otherwise skip it *****

Lt Col Carey Merritt

Generally, one should not have to tell a reader when or when not to read an article in the EnGarde. However, reading about Chemical Warfare Defense Operations is not very interesting reading. This new training concept is coming and will likely dominate our readiness training over the next few years.

Here are six highlights:

1. The biggest potential chemical attack on American forces is a ballistic missile that will likely explode above the earth and disperse a chemical into billions of micro sized droplets.
2. Most chemicals are absorbed into concrete, asphalt and grass; therefore minimizing the spread of contamination and making decon very difficult.
3. With good modeling we can better predict the down wind hazard area – therefore, not all of the base may be in the same protective posture. (i.e. MOPP level)
4. Chemical detection is not as simple as we thought – everyone must become a detector and know what to do.
5. Our Intelligence and Disaster Preparedness experts will be relied upon even more in the future.
6. This new method of training will be different, confusing at first and require a much higher attention to detail by the folks in the field.

More details to come in the future months. We have been mandated by ACC to re-train our entire base populace by June 03, and conduct an ORE using this new Con-ops by December 03. Will you be ready?

A Fond Farewell

After 16 years with the 174th Fighter Wing Base Exchange (BX), Maureen Hubbard (affectionately known as 'Mo') will be leaving to accept a new job. We want to thank you, Maureen, for all your patience and service and wish continued success.

Congratulations Mo!!

LifeTime Awards Program

Lifetime Network produced it's first annual 'Lifetime Awards...Women Changing the World'. As part of the program there was a tribute to women and families in the military. At the request of the Lifetime Channel producers The Secretary of the Air Force Public Affairs requested family profiles from Air Force units all over the country. The 174th FW Public Affairs Office and The 174th FW Family Readiness Team submitted the family of Tech Sgt. Bill Schroeder, Staff Sgt. Tracey Schroeder (both members of the 174th Security Forces Squadron) and Samantha Schroeder, their 12 year old daughter. The programs executive producers selected the Schroeder family from hundreds of considerations. The Schroeder's will appear on the Lifetime Awards program Thursday, 22 May 2003. Above, Samantha Schroeder is talking to one of the programs co-producers and writer, Sara Lukinson about her role on the program. Dad (Tech Sgt. Bill Schroeder) is proudly looking on.

From Hancock Field to Football Field

TSgt Troy Canada from the 174th Medical Squadron played for the Vermont Ice Storm Semi-Pro Football Team which won the New England Football League Championship for the 2002 season. TSgt Canada, a Wide Receiver, was named the Offensive MVP for his team and nominated MVP of the NEFL for the 2002 season. TSgt Canada was involved in Community Service with the team as they organized various functions such as raising money for Multiple Sclerosis, local Food Drives, and delivering Christmas toys to the Fletcher Allen Hospital located in Burlington, Vermont. TSgt Canada lives in Plattsburg, NY and is employed at Champlain Valley Physicians Hospital.

VA Reduces SGLI Premiums for Military Family Coverage

American Forces Press Service reports that the Department of Veterans Affairs has announced that premiums for the Service members Group Life Insurance will be reduced, handing military members a few extra dollars in their pockets each month. Beginning in July, the cost for a $250,000 policy — the maximum coverage -- will drop from $20 to $16.25 monthly, a $3.75 savings. The Department of Veterans Affairs reports that rates for Veterans Group Life Insurance will not change. The largest saving will go to spouses between 35 and 39 years old, whose premiums will be nearly cut in half. Service members currently pay $13.00 for a $100,000 family policy. That policy will cost $7.50 beginning in July - a $5.50 savings. The reduced rates means a military family will save an average of $100 a year. The VA estimates that service members collectively will save about $96 million annually in premiums, and $42 million in family coverage premiums each year. Information about the change in SGLI premiums can be found at <http://www.insurance.va.gov>, or call the Office of Servicemembers Group Life Insurance toll-free at 1-800-419-1473.

Family Separation, Imminent Danger Pays Increased Retroactively

Stars and Stripes reports that President Bush has signed a war-time defense supplemental bill that raises military Family Separation Allowance by $150 a month and Imminent Danger Pay by $75 a month, retroactive to Oct. 1, 2002. Almost 200,000 servicemembers drawing Family Separation Allowance will see the pay jump from $100 a month to $250. Anyone eligible for FSA back through October will receive back pay as soon as military finance centers can implement the change. At least 250,000 military personnel draw Imminent Danger Pay of $150 a month. That will rise, by 50 percent, to $225, and again the increase will be retroactive to October. Many of the eligible will include attendees at stateside service schools, on temporary duty assignments or deployed aboard ship or with aircraft squadrons, regardless of theater. For more on pay benefits, see http://www.military.com/Resources/ResourceFileView?file=Active_Duty_Pay.htm

IRS Information on Combat Zone Tax Provisions

Stars and Stripes reports that the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) has created a new section on its Website containing important information to help ensure members of the U.S. Armed Forces serving in a combat zone get all of the tax benefits available to them. The new information is available on the front page of <http://www.irs.gov> by clicking on "Armed Forces Tax Benefits." The new section highlights several special tax provisions that apply to those in combat, which can include extensions for filing tax returns and paying taxes and exclusion of some military pay from taxes. Included is a special e-mail address for members of the U.S. Armed Forces, their spouses, authorized agents or representatives, which can be used to notify the IRS about someone serving in a combat zone. For more information, see <http://www.stripes.com/03/apr03/irsrelease.doc>. For more on military tax benefits and discounts on tax services, see <http://www.military.com/Finance/Taxes/>

Bill Seeks Tuition Refunds for Reserves and Guard

Stars and Stripes reports that Rep. Martin Frost, D-Texas, has introduced a bill that would give refunds to activated reservists and guardsmen enrolled in colleges and universities, but unable to attend because they were called into service. The bill, H.R. 1323, titled "Reservists and National Guard Opportunities and Protection of Education Act," calls for institutions of higher education to refund tuitions and fees to students called up for active duty; grant students a military leave of absence, and restore students' academic statuses with regard to credits earned, scholarships or grants when they return to their schooling. Roughly 30 percent of all Reserves and guardsmen are enrolled in colleges, universities or other institutions of higher learning. The bill will be referred to the House Education and Work Force Committee. No hearing or decision date has been set for Congress to work on the bill. For more on education benefits, a scholarship database, a school finder, and more, visit <http://www.military.com/Education/SchoolLocator?ESRC=mr.nl>
